Editorial submission request and guidelines

We will soon be starting research for the 2017 edition of The Legal 500 Asia Pacific, and invite you to provide us with editorial submissions. Please note that these submission guidelines have been substantially revised and updated, with the objective of providing more clarity about the information for which we are looking – and therefore place importance on – and more transparency about how we conduct our analysis.

Editorial submissions and referee spreadsheets must be with us no later than Friday 20 May 2016.

You can find useful information on how we conduct our research and rank firms, and FAQs at legal500.com/assets/pages/about-us/get-involved.html.

If you have any further questions, please email the address below, and either I or one of my team will be pleased to help.

Yours sincerely

New: Next generation lawyers

The rankings in The Legal 500 focus on the bench strength of the teams within law firms. GCs will often tell us that this is the single most important factor when looking to instruct. Currently we highlight partners in the leading individuals lists and within the editorial. Responding to feedback from GCs, who regularly assess the quality of the associates before they look at the partners, or simply look to the team as a whole, we will be including a list of Asia Pacific’s leading ‘next generation’ of partners. We encourage firms to include information about associates and counsel in the submission who they feel make a material difference to the practice’s offering, and who have a strong case to be recognised by The Legal 500.

Regional international arbitration

The regional international arbitration table covers firms’ capabilities across the Asia Pacific region. Information will be drawn from firms’ existing dispute resolution and international arbitration submissions; firms will not be required to submit for this table, but where applicable should highlight the practice’s regional arbitration expertise within the relevant country submissions.

The English Bar: Feedback required

The Legal 500 Asia Pacific now covers the strengths of English barristers in the context of international arbitration across the Asia Pacific region. We would welcome any feedback you are able to give on English barristers you have worked with.

Please email any feedback separately, to editorial@legal500.com with the subject line

- Asia/Bar feedback/Practice area

In this email, please also send us the contact details for one partner we can contact by telephone to discuss their feedback on barristers and views of the English Bar.
Detailed submission guidelines

We do not publish or provide a form or template for submissions. We want firms to present their practices in their own words and format, rather than approaching submissions as a literal and figurative form-filling exercise. The best submissions are those that provide a clear and succinct snapshot of the practice in question.

There is a certain minimum level of information that a submission will ideally contain, as detailed below.

It may be helpful to approach the drafting of the submission in the same way as a client pitch; rather than a dry recitation of facts, we want to get a sense of the enthusiasm and passion that the team has for its practice area and clients.

Feedback on the 2016 edition

You are encouraged to provide constructive feedback on the practice’s ranking in (or omission from) the 2016 edition. If you disagree with our decision last year, and have suggestions as to where the practice should be ranked, please make your reasons as specific and detailed as possible. Please bear in mind that, within tiers, firms are listed alphabetically.

You are welcome to include any observations about the market and rankings generally, but please note that peer feedback is not part of the ranking analysis for firms. Constructive comments about the market – particularly factual statements (for example about partner moves) – can be a useful starting point for researchers.

Practice information

Always bear in mind that The Legal 500 Asia Pacific has a team-based focus, rather than on individual lawyers. Firms that can demonstrate this strength-in-depth in their submissions stand a better chance of being ranked.

Set out the basic information about the team, including:
China

Editorial submission request and guidelines

- Head(s) of team (and of any sub-teams, such as contentious/non-contentious);
- Size and makeup of team (number of partners, senior associates and so on);
- Location of each team member (and, where an individual is not based in one location, details of their division of time between different offices); and
- Where a lawyer does not specialise in one area of law exclusively, an explanation of their role and why they are being put forward as part of the team.

Think carefully about the message that you want to convey to us, and explain clearly what the practice does (and does not do). This may include, but is not limited to, information on:

- Specialisms and particular expertise of team members in the practice area;
- Client base (both type and geographic);
- Lists of representative active clients/new clients;
- Any sector focus;
- Types of work on which the practice focuses (such as high-end litigation);
- Key differentiators between the practice and those of its competitors; and
- Where relevant, support available to/from other practices in the firm on cross-disciplinary/jurisdictional matters.

Provide details of any significant developments for the period June 2015 to date. These can be anything that you feel would be relevant to our analysis for the rankings, and should include the arrival or departure of any senior team members (and where they have joined from/departed to), and new client wins or panel appointments.

It is also helpful to include any other information that will help to contextualise the practice, such as: the total number of deals handled that year; the number of cited cases on which the firm acted; or where a partner is chair of a prominent legal association.
Detailed work examples

Provide up to ten detailed work examples; all should fall between June 2015 and May 2016.

The work examples are the central element of the submission: they are a critical part of our qualitative analysis for whether or not to rank a firm in a given practice area. We have increased the limit on work examples to give us a greater evidential basis for our analysis; and to allow firms to illustrate the breadth of their practice with a greater diversity of examples – and from more team members.

The work examples should be matters (whether transactions, cases or other instructions) that, collectively, represent the practice as a whole and illustrate its expertise. When drafting the text for each example, bear in mind who will be reading it and for what purpose: researchers often have several dozen submissions for a given practice area, and they are looking for differentiating factors between firms.

Remember that our researchers, although familiar with the practice area in question and the market generally, are generally not lawyers. As such, write in layman’s terms, and do not assume that the work ‘speaks for itself’.

For each work example, you should include the following information, where relevant:

- What, if anything, about the example is confidential and cannot be published (see below for further details);
- In clear and straightforward terms, why the example has been included;
- Why the example is representative of the practice;
- How the practice was uniquely able (or one of a select handful able) to handle the matter;
- How the practice added value for the client(s);
- The identity of the client(s);
- The size or value of the matter;
- The firm(s) acting on the other side of the matter;

Editorial submission request and guidelines

• The team member(s) that led on the matter, and other lawyers that played a significant role;
• Support from other practices within the firm; and
• Links to any relevant and useful press releases or articles.

We recognise that some legal work, notably contentious and transactional matters, is lengthy and can span more than one year. Work examples of this nature used in last year’s submission may be included again this year, provided that there are notable developments (which should be explained).

Please ensure that any information that cannot be published is clearly marked as confidential. Where only some of the facts in an example are confidential, please specify clearly which parts are and are not confidential. See below for further details.

Whether or not a matter is confidential (in whole or in part) does not affect our ranking analysis; it affects only what we can write about in the editorial. As such, wherever possible, you should include at least one publishable matter.

Leading individuals
Every lawyer mentioned in our editorial is ‘recommended’, but our ‘leading individuals’ lists are designed to highlight those lawyers who are pre-eminent in their given field.

Usually, for a lawyer to be awarded leading individual status, he or she will have:

• A substantial amount of excellent referee feedback;
• A substantial amount of excellent peer feedback;
• Had a prominent role in several leading matters in the current year; and
• A strong track record over recent years.

Please provide full details of any lawyers that you wish to nominate as leading individuals. Generally speaking, you should not put forward every partner/lawyer in the practice; this is unrealistic and is counterproductive for the lawyers concerned.

Editorial submission request and guidelines

We now also welcome nominations of next generation lawyers; please provide information on associates and counsel who you feel make a material difference to the practice’s offering, and who also have a strong case to be recognised by The Legal 500.

Each nomination should include any relevant supporting information that demonstrates the profile of the individual in question, with reference to both work examples and non-work highlights.

Contact information

Provide contact details for the person whom we should contact in the first instance about the submission. Please include his or her name, position, email address and telephone number. Where this person is not the practice head, please also provide contact information for the latter.

Sending editorial submissions

When sending your submissions:

- Please email all submissions separately from any referee spreadsheets, to editorial@legal500.com
- Firms can provide submissions for the jurisdiction in a single email or in multiple emails. From an administrative point of view, we prefer a single email (attaching either one document containing all practice area submissions, or multiple documents). If sending a single email, the subject line should be marked as follows:

  Asia/China/[Firm name]

- If a firm is providing submissions in multiple emails, the subject lines should be marked with the relevant practice area(s) ie

  Asia/China/[Firm name]/[Practice area(s)]

- Do not send any hard copy submissions.
- Please paginate submissions.

Confidentiality

We will assume that all information provided to us is not confidential, and may be referred to in the editorial, unless indicated otherwise. As noted above, please indicate clearly where any information (whether client names, deal or case values, or any other detail) is confidential and not publishable by marking it as CONFIDENTIAL (in capitals, bold and red text).

the date that we will start contacting referees, so that firms can let the referees know to expect our feedback request.

Referees will also receive an email on publication of The Legal 500 Asia Pacific in 2016, stating that the rankings and editorial are available to view, free of charge. Referees will not be put on any marketing or sales lists.

The Legal 500 series contacted over 250,000 individual referees in 2015. To ensure referees are not repeatedly contacted, it takes time to process and de-duplicate the spreadsheets. Please note the following rules and deadlines for referees:

- The referee deadline is Friday 20 May 2016.
- Any referees received between Friday 20 May 2016 and 3 June 2016 will be contacted only if that individual has not already been submitted in a spreadsheet by any firm before 20 May 2016. This is to help ensure that referees do not receive multiple emails from us.
- Any referees submitted after Friday 3 June 2016 will not be contacted.

Sending referee spreadsheets

When sending referee spreadsheets:

- Please email all referee spreadsheets separately from any editorial submissions, to editorial@legal500.com
- Firms can provide spreadsheets for the jurisdiction in a single email or in multiple emails. In either case, the subject line should be marked as follows:

  Asia/China/[Firm name]/Referees
- A firm providing spreadsheets for more than one jurisdiction can email the spreadsheets separately or together
- Please do not send any hard copy spreadsheets.
