Corporate and M&A

Tier 1

Allen & Gledhill (Myanmar) Co., Ltd has a reputation for advising international corporations and large domestic conglomerates in Myanmar's busiest industry sectors including real estate, infrastructure, energy and natural resources. Given its integration with the firm's regional network in Singapore and Malaysia, the Yangon team is especially well-placed to advise on inbound investment and M&A transactions, as well as major development joint ventures involving international parties. In addition, the team has been involved in several significant investment and M&A deals in the technology sector. Managing partner Minn Naing Oo has expertise across a range of disciplines including M&A, competition, private equity and project development, and with dual US and Singapore qualifications, he also has extensive experience in international arbitration. The M&A practice is led by Oh Hsiu-Hau, while Lee Jun Yee heads the banking and finance practice group and also heads the newly established regulatory practice. Jacqueline Cheong was promoted to partner in 2018.

Projects

Tier 1

Allen & Gledhill (Myanmar) Co., Ltd is particularly well known in the Burmese power sector, and leverages the strengths of its banking, finance, and corporate teams to advise project sponsors and international financing institutions. Headed by Minn Naing Oo, the team is involved in significant developments of a variety of civil infrastructure projects including ports, roads and bridges, power and energy, and urban redevelopment. In addition to the project development work, the practice group also handles corporate transactions for clients in the projects and engineering space, which has recently included a unique cross-border transaction in the Burmese mining sector. A key figure in the banking and finance practice is Lee Jun Yee, who has experience in international commercial lending and capital markets work. The firm also has complementary strengths in dispute resolution and arbitration.
